The case against Lopez was conducted by the Solicitor-General, Sir Edward Coke, who opened by showing that the grounds of all the plots against the Queen and the realm are not for any offence on her part, but for her constant defence of Christ's cause and His Holy Word against the Pope, and for protecting her dominions against the ambitions of the King of Spam These were the original causes of the cursed bull of Pius V , and from this root sprung all the rebellions, treasons and devilish practices since attempted After the < Invincible Navy,[5] as they termed it, had been defeated by God and her Majesty's princely care and providence, and by the valiantness of her nobles and true subjects, the King of Spain and his priests, despairing of prevailing by valour, turned to cowardly treachery, and what they could not do by cannon, they attempted by crowns To achieve this, have they put in practice three devilish attempts to burn the navy and ships with poisoned fireworks , to seduce some of the nobility to rebellion , and to take the blood of a virgin Queen To this end many needy and desperate young men are seduced by Jesuits and seminary priests with great rewards and promises to kill the Queen, being per-suaded that it is glorious and meritorious, and that if they die in the action, they will inherit Heaven and be
